Re: NOTICE OF DATA BREACH

Dear Customer

We are writing to inform you of a data security incident that may have affected personal information related to you. This notice describes what we know, steps we have taken in response to the incident, and additional actions you may wish to take to protect yourself.

WHAT HAPPENED?

On December 23, 2020, our third-party IT vendor, Avianis, notified us that there has been unauthorized access to its network on December 5, 2020 and potentially accessed information related to our customers and employees.

WHAT INFORMATION WAS INVOLVED?

Based on the information provided by the third-party IT vendor, it appears that information related to you may have been affected by this incident. Our IT, Security and Operational Teams have been working closely with Avianis to ascertain the impact and determine next steps. At this stage, we understand certain categories of personally identifying data may have been compromised, notably a combination of passport, travel visa, driver's license information, and credit card information.

WHAT WE ARE DOING

We regret this incident, and we take the privacy and security of your personal information very seriously. Avianis informed us it has identified and addressed the vulnerability that allowed this specific event to occur and has also informed us and other operators it has taken necessary corrective actions to prevent such an incident from occurring again.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

We know that the security of your personal information is important to you. As a precaution, we recommend that you remain vigilant to protect yourself. Please refer to Attachment 1 to this letter which provides additional information on those steps. Should you wish to subscribe to a monitoring service at this time, we will bear that cost. We have a preferential agreement with ID Watchdog for your consideration.

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Again, we regret any inconvenience this incident may cause. If you have any questions or need additional information, please contact your personal Client Aviation Director or send us an email at Data-Support@JetAviation.com.

Attachment 1: Additional Information

You should be cautious about using email to provide sensitive personal information, whether sending it yourself or in response to email requests. You should also be cautious when opening attachments and clicking on links in emails. Scammers sometimes use fraudulent emails or other communications to deploy malicious software on your devices or to trick you into sharing valuable personal information, such as account numbers, Social Security numbers, or usernames and passwords. The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has provided guidance at <https://www.consumer.ftc.gov/articles/0003-phishing>.

You should review your financial statements and accounts for signs of suspicious transactions and activities. If you find any indication of unauthorized accounts or transactions, you should report the possible threat to local law enforcement, your State's Attorney General's office, or the FTC. You will find contact information for some of those entities below. If you discover unauthorized charges, promptly inform the relevant payment card companies and financial institutions. You may also have a right under state law to obtain a police report.

Fraud Alert Information

We recommend that you place a free "Fraud Alert" on your credit file. Fraud Alert messages notify potential credit grantors to verify your identification before extending credit in your name in case someone is using your information without your consent. A Fraud Alert can make it more difficult for someone to get credit in your name; however, please be aware that it also may delay your ability to obtain credit. Fraud alerts last one year. Identity theft victims can get an extended fraud alert for seven years.

Call only one of the following three nationwide credit reporting companies to place your Fraud Alert: TransUnion, Equifax, or Experian. As soon as the credit reporting company confirms your Fraud Alert, they will also forward your alert request to the other two nationwide credit reporting companies so you do not need to contact each of them separately. The contact information for the three nationwide credit reporting companies is:

Free Credit Report Information

Under federal law, you are also entitled to one free credit report once every 12 months from each of the above three major nationwide credit reporting companies. Call 1-877-322-8228 or make a request online at www.annualcreditreport.com.

Even if you do not find any suspicious activity on your initial credit reports, we recommend that you check your account statements and credit reports periodically. You should remain vigilant for incidents of fraud and identity theft. Victim information sometimes is held for use or shared among a group of thieves at different times. Checking your credit reports periodically can help you spot problems and address them quickly.

If you find suspicious activity on your credit reports or have reason to believe your information is being misused, call your local law enforcement agency or state attorney general and file a police report. Get a copy of the report; many creditors want the information it contains to alleviate you of the fraudulent debts. You also should file a complaint with the FTC using the contact information below. Your complaint will be added to the FTC's Consumer Sentinel database, where it will be accessible to law enforcers for their investigations.

You may also contact the FTC—or if you reside in Rhode Island, Maryland, or North Carolina, your state Attorney General's office—at the contact information below to learn more about identity theft and the steps you can take to protect yourself.

Security Freeze Information

You can request a free Security Freeze (aka "Credit Freeze") on your credit file by contacting each of the three nationwide credit reporting companies via the channels outlined below. When a credit Freeze is added to your credit report, third parties, such as credit lenders or other companies, whose use is not exempt under law will not be able to access your credit report without your consent. A Credit Freeze can make it more difficult for someone to get credit in your name; however, please be aware that it also may delay your ability to obtain credit.
